Tried Virginia, Kentucky, Georgia, Louisiana, Tennessee and North Carolina consecutively. March, 1893, at New Orleans, the day following a Norther, raised about two mouthfuls of blood, my first hemorrhage. Paid no attention to it. April, 1893, in New York City raised bloody sputum. Kept quiet half a day. October, 1894, while feeling first-rate, experienced a copious hemorrhage. No ill effects, did not give in at all, merely went carefully for a few days. June, 1896, had several hemorrhages. Kept quiet about three days then, after a few days of work, went to Adirondacks for two weeks. Gained over 12 pounds and seemed to get right on feet. Winter of 1896-7 had several cases of sputum thick with blood but no clear blood. October and November, 1897, much blood with sputum every morning, but seemed to be from back of nose and upper throat. Apparently in...
